

IDEA 17 “Don’t call us alternative...”

This is a poem written from the perspective of a student in an alternative school by Dr. Monday (aka John Harris Loflin). It presents a challenge to our OpportunINDY: recommend that each student and teacher in a Marion County alternative placement setting have a lesson around this rhyme. The lesson would consist of a history of Alternative Ed and the history of the school or program where the class is taking place. The conversation can lead to a debate and other poems by other authors and/or by the teacher/students about the viability of the concept.
