

Fiery Cross "Yea, Butler!" February 9, 1923 p. 4

Proud Father was talking to ambitious son who had just entered his Senior year at Arsenal Tech. Says Proud Father, "Son, I suppose you will want to go to some big eastern college next year?" Says ambitious son to Father: "Oh, no, Father, I have looked 'em over pretty close, and I have decided to go to Butler." With our wonderful Arsenal Technical High School sending our Indianapolis boys "on to Butler," we have faith in the future of our state, and with a reorganization of the Indianapolis School Board being forced we have hope for our city schools.

Seventy-three years ago Butler College was incorporated by an act of the legislature as the Northwestern University under the sponsorship of the Christian Churches of Indiana.

They took their religion a bit more seriously, perhaps, than we do now and their creation then gives rise to the thought that now when Butler College is celebrating Founders Day is a time for sober thought and some reflection on the needs of our school system.

Support to the new Butler today will reflect the present generation's appreciation of its obligations.

Butler! Rich in traditions of Christianity and education, with a firm place in the hearts of our sons, we greet you. Yea! Butler.

Yea, Butler!

With our wonderful Arsenal Tech HS sending our Indianapolis boys on to Butler, we have faith in the future of our state, and with a reorganization of the Indianapolis School Board being forced we have hope for our schools.

Seventy-three years ago Butler College was incorporated as an act of the legislature as Northwestern University under the sponsorship of the Christian Churches [Disciple of Christ] of Indiana.

Butler! Rich in tradition of Christianity and education, with a firm place in the hearts of our sons, we greet you. Yea! Butler.