

IDEA 2c A proposal to re-invent disability: A Strength-Based ILP for all* Marion County special education students and their families

Disproportionality is an issue in most urban public school districts, especially for students labeled with the category “Special Education.” Students with disabilities often do not thrive in standardized and zero tolerance educational systems. A need exists for a truly transformational school concept to foster success in school and life for these students.

A Strength-Based Individualized Learning Plan is a 21st Century re-envisioning process. It focuses on both a student’s strengths and deficits in order to reach that student’s full potential.
