

IDEA 2b Accepting difference as a way to reduce violence: validating the differon, self-actualization and social-actualization, and meeting our human need for recognition

Although variety and difference is the theme our vast Universe, most people get “bullied” because they are deemed different and odd, or even worse “weird.” What if we can make difference a standard and uniqueness a goal?

This IDEA proposes using the concepts of self-actualization and social-actualization to make “difference” “normal.”
