Starting in 2013, Kameelah Shaheed-Diallo was Senior Vice President of Strategy & Community Engagement at the The Mind Trust Inc. Also see <https://www.themindtrust.org/>.

In 2018, along with Mind Trust founder David Harris, Indiana's destroy public education leader, she left to become a Partner with a "reorganizing" City Fund, which was spending prolifically to privatize public education the way she and Harris did in Indianapolis.

The City Fund has a well-funded political arm, Public School Allies (PSA). Previously, City Fund told Chalkbeat that it had raised $189 million and had given lots of money to organizations in 7 target cities. Indianapolis was 1 of the 7.

PSA is the organization with ambitions to spread charter schools and the "portfolio model" of school reform across the country.

Here is information on the IPS portfolio management model.

Here's a February 2021 critique of City Fund: Educators beware: The City Fund and its many tentacles of privatization.

Here's what the City Fund is doing in Indianapolis.
